Print Methods

Below is a list of symbols indicating the print methods available for specific products. Please refer to the symbols for complete detailed imprint information and artwork specifications.

Screen Printing also referred to as Pad Print, is a print process involving screens or plates to transfer the ink to an object. This is normally a one color ink imprint, but can be up to a 2 color imprint for an additional charge. The artwork needs to be in a vector format. Raster images will not print. Personalization is not an option on Screen Print. Standard Ink colors are listed, custom ink mixing is available for an additional charge.

Laser Engraving can be done on a variety of objects. This method is a very durable imprint option and can withstand years of abuse and uses. Artwork needs to be in vector format. Raster images will not engrave. Personalization is available on Laser Engraving for an additional charge. There are no color options with Laser Engraving.

Four Color Process Print is a full color imprint, done via a specialized print head suitable for Promotional Products. This is a highly attractive print option, creating an eye-catching branding option. Artwork works best with vector artwork but High Resolution Raster images can also be used. Personalization is an option for an additional charge. Four Color Process items need to be hand washed only.

Embroidery is done via a 15 needle sewing machine specifically created for stitching various color of threads in unison to create an eye catching branding option. This method of imprint is limited to the thread color options and exact color matches to your logo cannot be done. Embroidered Promo pieces can be machine washed. Artwork needs to be in solid colors with no gradients, and can be either vector or raster images. Personalization is an option but will incur additional digitizing charges.
